

VALUE OF SHELTER FOR STOCK.

We seldom see a more striking illustration of the advantages of shelter for stock, in increase of condition and saving of food, than the following, credited to a New Hampshire paper of ten years since:

"The barn in which my cattle for a number of years were sheltered, (if sheltered it could be called,) was in a very dilapidated condition. Expecting from year to year to be able to build a new one, I delayed making many little repairs which I am since convinced it would have been true economy to make several years before. I knew the animals suffered much from the cold, and to compensate for their suffering I fed them well; but while pursuing the system that necessity compelled me to adopt, I could not but observe, on comparing notes with my neighbors, that my cattle consumed considerably more than theirs, while at the same time their condition was not only no better, but scarcely as good. However, I then attributed this fact to any other than the right cause. Knowing that some animals eat more than others, without improving in an equal degree, I presumed that mine were of this lean kind, and thus dismissed the subject from my mind."

Feeling somewhat stronger in pocket a few years since I built a new barn. The shelter it afforded my cattle was, as you may suppose, better than the old one. The feed given my cattle during the first winter was the same in quantity and quality as that of the previous winter, but I was surprised to find in the spring there was a decided change for the better in their condition over that of the preceding spring. Last winter I found that I could keep them on at least one-quarter less food than ever before, and as I am satisfied that they have not changed their natures, I can not attribute this saving of food to any other cause than to the comfortable shelter provided for them in a new barn during a cold winter.

I am aware that there are scientific principles upon which this change may be accounted for, but aspiring to no prouder distinction than that of a plain, practical farmer, I leave scientific explanations to those more competent than myself, being content to record the simple fact that I saved one-fourth of my cattle's food by providing them with a shelter during the winter season."

NURSERY STOCK.

FIRMERS,
Look to Your Interest!

LATE in the fall is a GOOD TIME to set out Fruit Trees, as the ground is then in good condition for planting, and trees then planted have the important advantage of the earth becoming settled about the roots, before winters and spring rains, and also of EARLY GROWTH, starting with the advance of Spring.

Those wishing to plant can find over one hundred of the best varieties of Apple trees on the ground at the Railroad Nursery one half mile east of Winchester on the L. & P. Railroad. I will also have on the ground by the 25th of the present month a large lot of Standard and Dwarf Pear trees, all the leading kinds of Cherry, several large lots of Peaches, Nectarines, and a large lot of Grapes, to wit—Diana, Concord, Delaware, Rebecca, Geneva, Catawba, Isabella, Clinton, &c. Also a fine lot of the best Roses, and Ornamental Shrubs, such as Oak Leaf, Weeping Mountain Ash, Purple Fringe, and the different kinds of Evergreens, the leading kinds of Strawberries and Raspberries, Lawton Blackberry, Currants and gooseberries.

Prices as low as at any other reliable nursery. All trees and shrubs warranted true to name. Orders promptly attended to.

S. P. LUDY.

N. B.—I have about 10,000 fine four year old Apple trees. Those wishing large trees can be accommodated.
